More than a flavour

Scentium is constantly researching the key drivers that set market trends such as Naturalness, Increased Health, Functionality or Local preferences to be able to respond to this dynamic market.

The best that nature has to offer is located right at Scentium's doorstep due to its privileged location in the South of Spain, one of the greatest producing regions of citric fruits, where we source the highest quality natural raw materials to design citrus flavours. This privileged attribute also allows us to provide you with quality FTNF and Natural flavours for a variety of Food and Beverage products.

Health issues resulting from the consumption of fats, sugars and salt are an important focus for governments and consumers in a growing number of countries. We are developing systems that will help your products cover this market need.

Our fortified specialty mixes for energy and flavoured waters will add functionality to your beverages and further fulfil the current on-trend in health.

Scentium's international presence allows us to understand local food preferences and legal implications that facilitate the development of tailor-made products for each country or region.
