Euroma's unique quality standard

About 20 years ago, Euroma started as one of the first with steam treating our herbs and spices. Our colleague Kees den Uijl developed the first Prima Pura -system, while others were still using fumigation and irradiation. Even today this specific method is used on large scale in the decontamination of herbs and spices. And not just for Euroma, for the industry as a whole.

Until this day we are optimizing the process, to improve the quality of our products while keeping them at the highest food safety standards. For the second time during his career, Kees den Uijl got the opportunity to start up a complete new Prima Pura System; fully automated and with even better results concerning food safety and taste. This system is stationed at the heart of our new plant in Zwolle, because it's at the core of our belief: "Creating the best and the safest products in the industry."
